SOLEMN CEREMONIES MARK DEDICATION

Large Crowd Attends Crowning Event of Completion of St. Jerome's Catholic Church--Bishop J. Regis Canevin Preaches Sermon

MANY VISITING CLERGYMEN PRESENT

Solemn and impressive ceremonies characterized the dedication Sunday of the beautiful new church edifice of St. Jerome's Roman Catholic congregation at the corner of Washington avenue and Seventh street. Rt. Rev. Bishop J. Regis Canevin of the diocese of Pittsburg, dedicated the church and preached the sermon at the solemn high mass celebrated at 10:30 o'clock. To assist in the the observances a number of visiting clergymen were here, including Rev. Robert McDonald of Braddock, the first pastor of St. Jerome's church and Rev. T. A. Connors of Hazelwool the first assistant pastor.

Public exercises began with high mass at 10:30 o'clock. Previous to this hour Bishop Canevin had blessed the church and had in reality dedicated it. This was a private service.

When the organist struck tht first tones of the processional and the altar boys in their vestments led the procession of clergymen and the bishop towards the altar, there was an immense crowd gathered in the church. Nearly all the pews were filled and there were numerous visitors from out-of-town.

With the usual impressive rites of high mass the ceremonies began. Rev. Robert McDonald, as would seem eminently fitting both from the fact that he was the first pastor of St. Jerome's church and that it was the anniversary of his first mass, was the celebrant of the solemn high mass. Also as would seem fitting, Rev. T. A. Connors, the first assistant pastor served as deacon. Rev. H. C. Boyle, superintendent of schools of the Pittsburg diocese acted as the subdeacon. Rev. B. N. Axmacher, the present assistant pastor, filled the important post of master of ceremonies.

During the opening of the mass Bishop Canevin with his chaplains, Rev. William D. Fries, the pastor of St. Jerome's church, and Rev. P. Maher, of Roscoe, and other visiting clergymen occupied places to the left, close to the altar. The visiting clergymen there were Rev. William Hogan of Monessen, Rev. Father Boniface, C. P., of St. Paul's Monestery and Rev. Alphonse Mayer, of Coal Centre.

Under the efficient direction of Joseph Schoener the musical part of the mass was carried out most impressively. Mrs. Bertha Kleist was the organist and competently rendered the difficult masses on the new pipe organ.

Bishop Canevin read the gospel from the fifth chapter of St. Luke, the first to the eleventh verses inclusive, preceeding his sermon. The lesson which he read was chosen from the eighth chapter of the letter of Paul to the Romans the 18th to the 23rd verses

His sermon was a logical treatise of what might be called a doctrinal topic, showing the foundation of the church and proving its relation to the dedication of the new structure.

Bishop Canevin in opening his discourse complimented particularly the present pastor and assistant pastor, Rev. W. D. Fries and Rev. B. N. Axmacher, and generally the congregation for their efforts in creating the monument to the Christian religion which he said it was his pleasure to be present to dedicate. He said:

"This is a day on which the people of this congregation and their pastors may well rejoice. In fact it would be wrong not to rejoice and thank God for this temple to be used for a high and holy purpose."

Bishop Canevin spoke of the historic continuity and unity in the development of the church and said that this continuity and unity was evidence that the 'gates of hell should not prevail." Bishop Canevin went back into history to show that there was one church, and one church only. There was one God, he argued, and hence there was one church.

In material things there must be unity, for instance in social and political affairs. Bishop Canevin spoke of the law of gravitation and of the equilibrium that resulted from gravitation's power, declaring that there must be the same equilibrium in spiritual things concerning the church, hence the need of the one church. He quoted, "A kingdom divided against itself cannot stand."

History proves, he said that there never had been any conflict between the Catholic church and science, but that they were true, unchanging constant elements in the intellectual world. Bishop Canevin declared there could not be any religion without dogma, and cited the dogmas of the Catholic church, showing the fullness of belief. "There is one great truth and one great church," was his argument. This belief he confirmed in closing his discourse by illustration from scientific investigation.

Rev. P. Maher preached the sermon at the evening vesper service. He gave a most interesting discourse, taking his text from the tenth chapter of the Epistle to the Romans' tenth verse, "With the heart man believeth united justice, but with the mouth confession is made to salvation"

In his sermon, Rev. Maher spoke of the honor due to the church and said there could be no makeshift. He told of the internal merits of the church and in the honor due to the church, mentioned the grounds of gratitude for what she does for the people and for society.

Rev. Robert McDonald conducted the exercises. Rev. William Hogan, of Monessen was the deacon and Rev. Alphonse Mayer of Coal Centre was the sub-deacon. The master of ceremonies was Rev. T. A. Connors.

The substructure of the new church was completed at about the time Rev. W. D. Fries was appointed to the pastorate. Rev. Robert McDonald, the first pastor of St. Jerome's held the first mass in the substructure before leaving for Braddock. His transfer was made in 1905, so the substructure of the church is about seven years old. Work on the sub-structure was started last year. John T. Comes of Pitsburg was the architect and the Duquesne Construction company of Pittsburg the builders.

The trustees who had a notable part in looking after the work of building the new structure were: George Bailey, Councilman J. K. Rickey, John W. Carroll, P. Connelly, Dennis Oates, C. Minehan, George Pepperney and Frank Bailey.

It is expected that wives of Elks from all along the Monongahela valley will attend. The afternoon and evening will be the chief times of diversion. On Thursday, June 19, the Parochial schools of Monongahela will hold a picnic and on Thursday night of that week the newly organized "Char-Mon" club of Charleroi and Monessen young men will give a dance.

Wraps Again in Order.

The sudden drop in temperature yesterday and today started the gas fires in the sitting and bedroom stoves and caused a re-appearance of wraps and overcoats on the streets. So far as learned there was no frost but the low temperature was decidedly uncomfortable.

W. & J. ASKS AID FROM THE STATE

Representative Brownlee to Seek Appropriation for Washington Institution

AMOUNT IS $60,000

It is expected that at the opening of the session of the lower house of the legislature at Harrisburg today Assemblyman T. B. H. Brownlee, of Washington, will present a bill appropriating the sum of $60,000 for the erection of a chemical laboratory at Washington and Jefferson college In the senate Senator J. C. Judson is expected to introduce a similar measure.

At this time it will be necessary for Assemblyman Brownlee to obtain unanimous consent to introduce such a measure but it is generally believed he will be able to accomplish this and then the appropriation bill will be presented

Much interest attaches to this proposed measure both in Wahington and throughout Western Pennsylvania. At the present session of the legislature bills have been introduced providing the appropriation of large sums to various colleges and universities in the state Nothing has been suggested for Washington and Jefferson heretofore and it is generally felt that the local institution is as deserving of state aid as are many of the other schols who have applied.

"MOTHER" JONES SCORES WEST VA. COAL BARONS

Aged and Militant Woman Labor Leader Makes Vigorous Speech at Eldora Park at Gathering of Tri-County Socialists

FLAYS EXECUTIVE AND JUDICIARY

Vigorously denouncing the coal barons and calling down heaps of fire on the heads of those who are supposedly responsible for conditions that exist over the country to the detriment of the laboring classes, "Mother" Jones, one of the most noted labor leaders of the United States addressed a large crowd at Eldora park Sunday afternoon. The occasion was the first meeting of the summer of the Tri-County Socialists from Washington, Wesmoreland and Fayette counties. These three counties were largely represented. In the afternoon George R Kirkpatrick, the oirginal exponent of the anti-war theory and the author of the famous book "War, What For?" addressed a large crowd.

"Mother" Jones charged in her address that the coal barons of West Virginia through a subservient executive and judiciary had succeeded in abolishing the constitution and ruled with the use of the iron fists of the military forces.

She recounted the acts of tyrannous brutality that she witnessed in the mining camps of West Virginia during her residence there of almost a year. She was inspiring in her denunciation of certain high officials and their supposed smooth acts in compromising the embattled miners after their recent struggle

Though over 81 years old she was vitriolic in rehearsing the horrors of the war in West Virginia and did not hesitate to flay any party or individual whom she believed guilty of wrong doing. "Mother" Jones advocated most strongly working class political action and deprecated the present tendency to put into office men of the professions who understand little or nothing of the laboring cause. She urged the working class to arouse from its lethargy and take off the chains of wage slavery

Mr. Kirkpatrick at the evening meeting spoke on the subject of the causes of war and told where the laboring man might look for relief. About 3,000 people were in attendance during the afternoon and evening.

CHARLEROI BEATS BEAVER FALLS

Much Touted Club From Industrial Town Gets Walloping by Locals

VISITORS FAIL TO SCORE

With an ease born of long training at that sort of thing the Charleroi Independents on Saturday afternoon beat the Beaver Falls Independents by the score of 10 to 0 Beaver Falls came to Charleroi touted with a great tout, but their noise was bigger than they were. Some of the fans went to the ball ground, they confessed, half expecting to see Charleroi jammed by the Beaver countains, only to see them give the visitors a dickens of a walloping. Yet it was not a bad sort of game.

Kagren of Beaver Falls started the struggle by singling and stealing second and third bases successively. That was the nearest any of the visiting aggregation ever got to home plate.

When Charleroi came to bat in the last of the first inning, Mathers struck out and Urben flied to right field. The right fielder made a noble effort to freeze to the ball, but his freezers went badon him and "Hooks" got his base. Roll drew a walk. Urben went from second to third on a passed ball and home on a wild pitch. Roll tried to score on the same wild pitch only to get caught at the plate.

After the first until the fifth inning there was nothing doing in the score line. Donahue went to first on an error in this sesion and Mathers singled. Urben was safe on an error. Mathers got caught. Donahue came

MADE IN CHARLEROI.

It is getting to be a custom for towns to have some sort of an annual celebration, something to advertise the community, or to promote its interests in order to bring in trade and business. Charleroi has never participated i nthis custom for various reasons. In the first place the town is not old enough to have an old home week and secondly the products manufactured here are of such a nature that their distribution is wholesale, rather than retail.

In the world of manufactures, however, Charleroi is an important place on the map, and is becoming more so each year. First of all is the great Macbeth-Evans glass factory, whose ornamental street lighting process now is figuring prominetly. In the new system of scientific light engineering and the necessary products for its accomplishment, Charleroi is practically a base of supplies. In the manufacture of auto lenses the Charleroi product of the Macbeth-Evans factory is a world-wide standard as well as thei. battleship harbor and buoy lenses which are now created a government standard. Charleroi is also famous in that it has the only lighthouse lens manufactory in the United States, a department that has been installed and developed by the Macbeth-Evans people during the past two or three years.

Then there are other things that are made in Charleroi that concern local consumption more closely. Among these might be mentioned bottles and shovels, which are extensively produced. The town could well promote an interesting exhibit of things "made in Charleroi," that would be a credit to the whole state. Charleroi is playing an important part in the industrial life of the country and it is well for the outside world to know it.

FOOLING THE PEOPLE.

It was the immortal Lincoln who said, "You may be able to fool all the people some of the time, some of the people all the time, but you can't fool all the people all the time." Present conditions throughout the United States in regard to the political and fiscal management of public affairs, indicate that the great mass of people have reached the stage where they no longer permit themselves to befooled. This is why boss and machine rule is getting so many hard jolts, and why so many of the old line politicians are without visible means of occupation.

Before the high cost of living became a porblem the great mass of people scarcely felt the burden of public expenditures. Until modern requirements so increased the volume of public expenditures there was little attention paid to the matter, and extravagance and corruption became dominant. Individual taxe, however, were not high, and the people of the managment of the public finances and fiscal policy to the politicians. However, when school requirement increased and expanded, when modern sanitary requirements became imperative in every locality, and with the increasing cost of living besides, the people began to sit up and take notice. Then began the irrepressible conflict which is just in force—that of whether or not the people shall rule directly on what most vitally concerns them, or whether they will permit a chosen few, usually self appointed, to dictate what shall and what shall not be

This is the issue for all time to come in the future—whether the people will conduct their own affairs or permit special interests to dictate for them Conditions are complicated and the struggle will ebe long and bitterly contested. The people will ultimately win out, as it is only a matter of realizing their sovereignty and removing the many obstacles which at the present time are preventing direct action.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

"Hey, Mac! Stop the car, quick! Me Jenny's fallen off" excitedly cried a specimen of the tall timbers and green cornfields Sunday night from the rear of a swiftly moving car near Schenley Park in Pittsburg, says the Pittsburg Dispatch. With grim force the person was prevented from jumping overboard The conductor gave the necessary bells and the car came to a sudden stop.

Alighting with reverse English the excited one turned a flipflop and disappeared down the tracks in the darkness. Passengers rushed to the rescue. So did many passing along the sidewalks. Women held their hands in the locations of their hearts and gasped. As someone expressed it afterward "a profound stillnes rent the air like thunder," and then——

"Whoopee!" came a long-drawn chortle of joy out of the night An instant later the loose-jointed one hoped up the steps of the waiting car. He was embracing a corncob pipe, inserted carelessly in his face.

"Got my Jenny" said he with a grin. A wave of relief passed through the car. "She's an old friend of mine," explained the stranger, as he caressed the corncob lovingly.

"There's one more cold snap due this season yet," said a Charleroi citizen this morning, in commenting on the low temperature that prevailed, "and that will come whenever I put on my short-legged underwear. I can bring about a change in temperature every time by changing my underwear, as regularly as the seasons come and go. I wore my heavy winter flannels until late in the season this year, but when it got to a sweltering point I thought I would change gradually, and donned cotton drawers, still retaining flannel upper garments. Sure enough the temperature dropped and for a couple of days I felt as I imagine a Scotchman does in kilts.

"Last Friday I put on a short sleeved undershirt and shed my vest. You see the result today. I expect to do the Scotchman act late on in the season, and then the next low drop in temperature is due."

TRAINED IN HOUSEHOLD WORK

German Institution Teaches Girls Domestic Service, and Finds Great Demand for Graduates.

Berlin has an institution, founded about two years ago by a woman. The object of the "Sister School," as it is called, is to train well-educated girls for domestic service. The students are generally daughters of professional men, and the curriculum comprises cookery, housework, the care of children, and needlework. When application is made for the services of a "sister," the matron, or some other woman connected with the school, calls upon the applicant, forms an opinion of the "situation," and arranges terms. Each "sister" must be allowed a free afternoon every week, one Sunday every other week from four o'clock, and a fortnight's holiday in the year. Six weeks' notice is required on each part. The salaries paid range from $7.50 to $12.50 a month, with, of course, board and lodging. Sisters wear a brown uniform, are treated as social equals, are not required to take meals with other servants, and are addressed as "Sister Marie," "Sister Hedwig," etc. The demand for their services is so great that the head of the Sister school declares that she could place 500 girls a year, instead of 50, and similar institutions are about to be established in other German towns.

MAKE WAREHOUSE OF CHURCH

Sacred Edifice at Brighton, England, Has Been Unfortunate Since Its Erection.

To serve as a cold storage warehouse for meat and eggs—such is the fate of the beautiful Church of the Resurrection at Brighton, England. Built at the expense of the late Rev. H. D. Wagner for the accommodation, it is said, of the poorer members of the congregation, and for those who preferred a ritual simpler than that of St. Paul's church on West street, this building first attracted the public attention as the subject of a curious lawsuit. Mr. Wagner planned to build a remarkably tall church, and the owners of the adjoining property, by means of a lawsuit, prevented him from so doing. Accordingly he caused deep excavations to be made, and thus secured the desired internal height. The Church of the Resurrection proved to be a great expense and was closed in 1908, being, in the opinion of the present vicar of St. Paul's, no longer necessary for the purpose for which it was built. In 1909, after prolonged opposition on the part of Rev. E. F. B. Weber, one of the trustees, it was sold. Since then it has stood empty and in disrepair, until the grotesque tragedy of its present usage occurred.—The Churchman.

Tons of Iron Lost in Rust.

One large railroad system suffers a loss of more than eighteen tons of metal daily, due solely to the effect of rust. Thus far the only known preventive is to keep the metal surface always covered with a suitable paint. Some idea of the costliness of this remedy, however, may be gained from the fact that it requires about $10,000 annually to paint one large railway bridge alone. A typical case of this kind is the Brooklyn bridge, upon which a corps of painters are constantly employed, as the weather makes repainting of one end of this large structure necessary before the workers have reached the other. Although experiments have demonstrated that pure iron surrounded by oxygen does not rust, and that some acid, especialy carbonic acid, is necessary for the production of rust, the secret of manufacturing rustless steel and iran remains to be discovered.

Lasting Joke.

How long will a good joke last? Who can tell? You have heard that one about the good sleighing in Canada, and how by putting on a pair of pajamas and sitting on a cake of ice before an open window and ringing a bell one can get the same effect, and much cheaper. Billy Emerson, the minstrel, originated that one over thirty-five years ago, and it is one that has never run down. DeWolf Hopper began to use it in his curtain speeches eleven years ago, and ever since, eight times a week forty weeks a season, he has used it and it has never failed to get a laugh. Always there are some in the audience who never heard it. Hopper figures that with the addition of a few score times at private functions he has "sprung" the chestnut 3,753 times. It is his one best bet, he says, and expects to use it as long as he is in public life.

$20 Gold Pieces a Quarter Each.

When five boys commenced to sell $10 and $20 gold pieces on the streets of North Scranton for 25 cents each, with the supply apparently unlimited, curiosity was at once aroused as to the source of supply, and the boys were taken into custody and given the "third degree." When searched the youths' pockets produced over $500 in gold coin and when questioned they admitted that they had found a "pot of gold."

The money was buried in a box in the cellar of a house formerly occupied by Peter J. Scanlon, who during his lifetime had the reputation of being a miser. There were $620 in shiny gold pieces in the box. The boys, none of whom was over eight years of age, thought they were brass medals and sold about twenty of them before being arrested.—Scranton (Pa.) Dispatch to Philadelphia Record.

Happiest Home.

But the happiest home is built when the twain together meet the trials and catastrophes that come from the outside world with the good health, the common sense, the humor, the patience and courage that will rout them. It should not be necessary for these qualities to be used by the one to combat the faults of the other. —Barbara Boyd.

Lucrative Find in South Africa.

South Africa's possibilities as a producer of vegetable oils are wide indeed if the results of recent experiments under the auspices of the Mozambique authorities are translated into commercial realities. For instance, the fruit of the "macua-macua" was shown to yield no less than 60 per cent of fine edible oil, and of the "pombula" 52 per cent.

To Exterminate Vermin.

Mix and let stand for several hours one-half gallon of gasoline and ten cents' worth of corrosive sublimate. Put the mixture into a pint oil can, with a long spout, and spray into every place where there are bugs. Air the room thoroughly. After a few applications the vermin will have entirely disappeared.

One of His Worst.

The Doctor—Did you hear about that Methodist preacher's daughter down south who turned sleuth hunted up the pickpocket who had robbed her of her purse, and finally landed him in the penitentiary? The Professor—Good for her! She was an M. E. sis, with a vengeance.—Chicago Tribune.

In the Cyclone Belt.

Courage.

GOOD OLD AMERICAN NAMES.

"Monakers" Seen in News of Day Indicate New York Is Our Foremost European Capital.

In the news of one day in New York we find that a man by the name of Isidore Steinberg pleaded guilty to bigamy in the court of a judge named Rosalsky; that a youth named Tumoshefsky was drowned; a man named Blau was convicted of keeping disorderly resort; a girl named Anna Cicone was a principal witness in a murder case; a Madame Le Compte figured in domestic sensation; a certain Miss Zella brought a breach of promise case; a Governor named Sulzer sent a message to the legislature; Hannes Kolehmainen was the star of a footrace; another runner named Abel Kiviat made a fast trial spin; and a Mr. Max Hochstim figured in a hotel scandal.

The names of Klonz, Remitz, Brost, Gaw, Levi, Harberg, Golla, Schenkel, Stovell, Meniak, Dalldorf, Jensen, Yohoman, Stappers, Lococq Hulse Maetrich, Wirsing, Wexler, Szabo, Tietelbaum, Trifari, Carnap, Loew, Brandus, Mahoney, Braum, Kimmelman Ubert, Sarlin, Trosky, Mullan and Beubel are the first to assail the eye on turning to a page of advertisements.

In another generation or two these will be good old American names. Meanwhile New York will continue to be our foremost European capital.

SAYS ALL WOMEN ARE LIARS

German Diplomat, Who Got the "Mitten," Declares Fair Sex Deficient Morally.

"All women are liars and are deficient in their sense of moral duty."

This and more is the opinion of Baron Herrmann von Kuhlmann of Bavaria, unmarried and attached to German embassy at Pekin, who arrived on the Chiyo Maru recently.

According to fellow passengers, the baron formed his views on the voyage when his attentions to Miss Katherine Enright of Chicago did not meet with hearty response.

"A woman cannot recognize the same moral responsibility as a man," said the baron. "No marriage can remain a happy one for more than a year. By that time a man will lose faith in his wife."

Then, turning to Miss Enright, the baron said:

"We have had a pleasant trip. But to have you for a wife if I could—never! You are too energetic."

Returning to the interview, the baron continued:

"Woman is illogical and untrustworthy. She changes her mind too frequently. Woman has no feeling requiring her to tell the truth. In Germany a man and wife are comrades, but in America—never. Here the women are proud and selfish and the men suffer for it."

Advice About Reading.

Be sure, then, to read no, mean books; shun the spawn of the press in the gossip of the hour. Do not read what you shall learn, without asking, in the street and the train. Dr. Johnson said he "always went into stately shops," and good travelers stop at the best hotels; for though they cost more they do not cost much more, and there is the good company and the best information. In like manner the scholar knows that the famous books contain, first and last, the best thoughts and facts. . . . The three practical rules, then, which I have to offer are (1) Never read any book that is not a year old. (2) Never read any but famed books. (3) Never read any but what you like.—Emerson.

Community in News.

At a friend's southern hunting lodge his wife has learned that her "ring-up" on the telephone is accompanied by the click of receivers all along the line. Every one is obviously listening to what she says. On one occasion a telegram was telephoned to the lodge, and the following day, when her husband met a rural neighbor on the road, the latter drew rein to converse.

"Mr. Grey," said he, "I didn't ketch th' fust part o' that telegram we got yeste'day."

Mr. Grey accordingly enlightened his ignorance forthwith.—New York World.

Farmer's Suggestion.

A Florida farmer who was raising strawberries for the market sent a shipment to New York and the commission merchant wrote back that the berries were too ripe, consequently poor prices and small return checks, so next time the grower picked them earlier and the results were about the same, as the New York man said they were too green for the market; so the next shipment the man pulled up the plants by the roots, packed them in boxes and said, "You can pick them when just right for your particular market."

Made Dogs and Rats Fight.

For keeping premises in Soar Lane, Leicester, for dog and rat fighting, Walter Manship was at Leicester yesterday fined £5 under the protection of animals act, and for assisting him Ernest Manship and Albert Martin of Leicester, Joseph Ward of Hinckley and James Mason of Birmingham were fined £1 each. It was stated that on Boxing day terrier dogs were placed in a rat pit and a number of rats were killed. All the competing dogs were badly bitten and in one competition two rats were seen hanging from the bleeding jaws of a dog. —London Mail.

Resolutions of Respect

At a regular meeting of Charleroi Circle 303 P. H. C. Friday, June 6th, 1913 the following resolutions of respect were adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased the Divine Ruler of the Universe to remove from our midst our Brother George Pegg.

Resolved, That our charter be draped for 30 days in honor of his memory, resolutions of respect drafted a copy of the same to be spread upon our minutes a copy to be sent to the bereaved family and printed in daily papers.

While we humbly submit to the Divine Power in removing from our midst our Brother George Pegg we as well as his immediate friends feel the deep loss.

His accustomed place in this Circle is now vacant, the tongue has lost its power of speech, the lips are closed in the cold embrace of death. His form and face are now forever hidden from our vision. No more will we see him in our midst but his goodness of heart, manly virtues and acts of charity are engraved upon our hearts and memories. The Immortal Rules of the Universe has called him from his place in this Circle chamber to a more exalted one in the Heavenly Circle above.

RESTORED INN OF AUERBACH

Tavern Where Goethe Placed One of Scenes in "Faust" Has Been Reconstructed.

The latest concrete evidence of literary devotion in Germany is the thorough reconstruction of the "Tavern of Auerbach," where Goethe placed one of the most vivid scenes of "Faust." It is melancholy to reflect that nothing more remains of the old building, since after a complete demolition the architects have constructed a wholly modern building on the site, but care has been taken to preserve intact the cellar, which has been for fully a century an object of pilgrimage for Germans, who are at once proud of their literature and fond of recherche drinking.

Painters of an "advanced" school have been commissioned to adorn the walls of the various dining rooms with scenes taken from Goethe's great drama, while to complete the new attractions it is announced that the staircase leading down to the cellar will be furnished with two bronze statues, the subject of which is unknown. The evolution of the "Tavern of Auerbach" promises to be the same as that of other like sacred places. It will probably bring in an excellent income to the restaurateur.

ENGLISH WOMEN RUN FARMS

Through Co-Operation Special Provision is Made for Them in Some Sections.

Seventy-five enthusiastic women farmers met recently at the Criterion restaurant, the occasion being the fifth annual dinner of the Women's International union. Mrs. Wilton Allhusen presided.

Miss Emerson maintained that women have not the same facilities, capital, and so forth, as men.

"The remedy," she said, "lies in co-operation. A company has obtained a farm at Heathfield, in Sussex, and has divided it into small holdings for women farmers. Bungalows are provided for the tenants, whose agreements secure fixity of tenure and who have perfect liberty in developing their land as they like. At the same time they have the benefit of expert advice. The company markets all the produce, and is able to obtain better terms than could the individual tenants."—London Mail.

Ozone as a Preservative.

An important improvement in the technique of cold storage has recently been introduced in Germany, viz., the use of ozone as a supplement to the ordinary process of refrigeration. In the cold storage rooms attached to slaughter houses the temperature of the air is liable to be raised to a serious extent when the doors are left open for any reason; for instance, when meat is being put in or taken out. The micro-organisms of putrefaction immediately become active under such circumstances, and the keeping quality of the meat is diminished. Now it is well known that ozone is a powerful germicide. If the air of the cold-storage rooms is ozonized, its temperature may be raised without injury to the contents. This has been proved by numerous experiments, and ozonizing apparatus has now been installed in the abatoirs at Cologne, Potsdam, Brandenburg, Berlin, Frankfurt-on-the-Main, Dusseldorf, Freiburg (Silesia), Aix-la-Chapelle and Erfurt in a cold storage depot at Hamburg, and in various dairies, poultry and game stores and fish establishments.

To Put Out Oil Fires.

Two Danish inventors have found a way to put out oil fires by applying carbonic acid that is foaming violently. The foam is produced by a mixture of two liquids, and it is said that when it is thrown on burning substances, such as oils, benzine and tar, it spreads rapidly over the surface and puts out the flames by cutting off the air. Many tanks that contain oil or other highly inflammable liquids are now permanently fitted with perforated pipes, through which the foaming mixture can be applied directly to the surface of the burning material. Hitherto fires in oil tanks have been allowed to burn themselves out or the contents have been drawn out from below and wasted. According to Chambers' Journal many private and government institutions have adopted the new system.

He Meant a Wee Nap, Not a Wee Nip.

After Charles Myers, a Mason (Mo.) barber, had finished up the stranger he raised the chair, and his customers head fell over to one side. The barber straightened him up and shook him a little.

"You were asleep," said Charley.

"So I was—so I was," agreed the gentleman in the chair. "Well, you'll have to come 'round to my place and take one on me."

"I don't drink," returned Charley.

"Neither do I. I'm the new preacher at the First Street church."—New York World.

It Will Save Time.

They took an ocean voyage for their honeymoon. The second day out "dearie" was experiencing the unreliability of an ocean that was guaranteed to be without variableness or shadow of turning and wondering if "hubbie" could by any human effort obtain a position abroad when "hubbie" entered the stateroom.

"It is lunch time, dearie; shall I have yours brought here or will you try to eat it on deck?"

"No, love; have it thrown overboard. It will save time and trouble."

Eight Who Deserve Slaps.

Eight men who deserve to be slapped on the face: He who despises a man of power; he who enters a house uninvited and unwelcomed; he who gives orders in a house not his own; he who takes a seat above his position; he who speaks to one who does not listen to him; he who intrudes on the conversation of others; he who seeks favors from the ungenerous; and he who expects love from his enemies.—From a Persian Saying.

Real Test.

There is something finer than to do right against inclination, and that is to have an inclination to do right. There is something nobler than reluctant obedience, and that is joyful obedience. The rank of virtue is not measured by its disagreeableness, but by its sweetness to the heart that loves it. The real test of character is joy. For what you rejoice in, that you love. And what you love, that you are like.—Henry van Dyke.

Be Careful in Speech.

If in our speech we would need consider how our words will affect those to whom they are spoken—if we would try to hear them with their ears and consider how they accept in their hearts, there would not be much passionate or unadvised speech; certainly there would be few spirits wounded or lives embittered by the words of our lips.—W. G. Horder.

Accentuating Plant Characters.

It has been found that under red light (light through red glass) plants become more robust than in any other. They also become more pronounced in their chief characters—the leafy plant becomes more leafy, all shades of green become more pronounced, the sensitive plant more sensitive and all in every way become highly specialized.

Pigeon Descended Chimney.

When a resident in the London road, Reading, England, came downstairs recently, he found perched on the top bar of the grate in the drawing-room a pigeon which had come down the chimney. It had brought with it a considerable quantity of soot. When the occupier opened the windows the pigeon made its escape.

Food Kept Warm.

A flatiron stand will be found useful on the range to keep the contents of a saucepan warm without danger of burning, says the Indianapolis News. It is also useful when one desires food to simmer; there is then no fear of sticking or burning on a hot stove.

Unfortunate English.

The general impression that the Englishman's life is rather prosy is supported by the statement of a Londoner who visited at Clay Center. He said he never had tasted fried chicken or strawberry shortcake, the two being unknown to the culinary art in his country.—Kansas City Star.

"Bait" Was Good.

Ideals the Guiding Star.

All Have a Duty.

Every man or woman is one of mankind's dear possessions; to his or her just brain, and kind heart and active hands, mankind intrusts some of its hopes for the future.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Changing Hues.

"You are in love with a blonde," remarked the fortune teller, "but after you marry her, beware of a brunette who—" "No danger," remarked the patron; "it's the same woman."—The Ladies' World.

The Average Man.

The average man will hurry to a veterinary when his pet dog gets sick, but he is willing to rely on almost any kind of "dope" when he isn't feeling well himself.

Improved Safety Razor.

The principle of the double-bladed plane has been applied to safety razors, so that the operator shaves with two blades at the same time.

Little Satisfaction.

A mummy gets blamed little satisfaction from winning the endurance prize.—Atchison Globe.

Evil of Insincerity.

Of all the evil spirits abroad at this hour in the world, insincerity is the most dangerous.—Froude.

PROUD OF HIS SELF-CONTROL

Mrs. Brown Could Agree With Her Liege Lord, Too, That It Was Something Uncommon.

Mr. Brown was excitable by nature, but he often prided himself audibly upon his self-control. One night while the family were gathered at the tea table the chimney began to roar; the furnace draft had been opened and forgotten. Straightway a panic ensued.

"Don't lose your heads—keep cool!" cried Mr. Brown. "It's nothing serious."

He dashed up the stairs, discovered that the metal cap over the only unused stovepipe hole was already red hot, and dashed down again faster than he went up.

"K-keep cool!" he gasped, as he passed through the room where the family had gathered in nervous apprehension. "I'll be back in a minute."

He was back in less than that time, having observed that the flames were spouting several feet high from the chimney, and that a shower of sparks was falling upon the roof.

"Wh-where's the step-ladder?" he panted.

He was gone before anyone could answer the question, and presently was heard bellowing from the roof of the woodshed. He presented an heroic figure in the glare of the blazing chimney.

"I've got one end of the hose!" he called. "Some one attach the other end and turn on the water—quick!"

Two long minutes passed.

"Why doesn't some one do as I ordered?" he thundered. "Do you want the place to burn up?"

"We can't, Henry!" called Mrs. Brown, tremblingly. "You haven't got the hose—you've got the cow-rope. It was hanging next to the hose in the shed. And anyway, the roof is covered with ice, and I don't think there's any great danger outside. You'd better go and watch the chimney from the inside."

A half-hour later the family were again at the tea table.

"If this had happened in some homes," remarked Mr. Brown, "the family would have lost their heads completely and sent in an alarm. Self-control is an excellent thing—and far from common."

"Indeed it is!" agreed Mrs. Brown, emphatically.—Youth's Companion.

BASEBALL FOR THE FARMER

Possibly the Game Might Be of Benefit to Him, But It Is Hardly Indispensable.

Baseball never has been regarded exclusively as a city product. While it is true that the cities supply the enormous crowds that support the big leagues, it is equally true that many of the players in those leagues are graduates of the "bush" leagues. The country boy has an equal chance with the city boy to win the high honors and generous emoluments of a successful ball player. The farmer himself has not come directly in touch with the national game, perhaps, except on a rare holiday. A professor in the Kansas State Agricultural college calls this a mistake. Familiarity with the game, he believes, would promote success in agriculture. If the farmer would play ball "it would take the shamble out of his walk" and "make him decide quickly." This is an interesting theory, but it will not be universally accepted. Some will contend that the motor car has already taken the "shamble" out of the farmer's walk. Others will insist that handling a high spirited horse or pitching a load of hay on a wagon while a thunderstorm is gathering is just as valuable in training his mental faculties to quick action.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

Rose Culture in Bulgaria.

White and red roses are grown, the former being easier to cultivate, but giving only about half as much oil of an inferior quality. The individual growers distil their own oil. Twelve to fifteen kilos of roses are distilled with 60 kilos of water until 12 kilos of distillate are obtained; eight to ten such lots are then united, and redistilled into long necked flasks, in which the oil separates on standing. To produce one kilo of oil requires 8,000 kilos of roses of 1,200,000 flowers. The roses are gathered in the early morning and distilled the same day. The pure oil from the various districts shows variations in odor and physical properties, and is therefore skillfully blended by the distributing houses before sale. Adulteration is very largely carried on by the peasants, who use ginger grass oil, palma rosa oil, geranium oil, etc. The production for 1910 was 3,142 kilos.—The Pharmaceutical Era.

We Are Creatures of Habit.

There was no rush at the moment and the ticket chopper had time to talk to the man waiting for a friend in a subway station. "Yes, we see lots of queer people here," he said, "and we have nearly the same people every day and at the same hour. I know men who do not vary a minute in a week in their reaching the ticket box. The queerest man we have at this station we call 'the whistler.' Every morning at 7:20 he drops his ticket in the box and he always whistles. That wouldn't be so funny, but for years it has always been the same tune. We all know the tune, but no one knows the song. His ticket goes in the box at the same note every morning, and then he walks to the third post, opens his paper and whistles till the train comes."—New York Tribune.

Made His Blessing Retroactive.

The father of a family who had been striving to bring up his children in the way they should go was very much annoyed at his son's uncouth habit of helping himself to a few bites before grace had been said. The stereotyped form called for: "A blessing on what we are about to eat," but one occasion being particularly exasperating, he astounded the young man by adding to his petition, "and on that which has already been eaten."

Fully Explained.

Every now and again some individual arises to tell us Why We Are, and What We Are, and How We Know Why We Are, and How We Are What We Know, and What We Would Be If We Weren't, and What, Precisely, Areness Is, also Wereness, and Why We Aren't What We Mightn't Have Been if We Weren't, and other simple and entrancing facts. Such an individual is called a philosopher.—Bulletin, Sidney.

Will Destroy Moths.

It is said that the following will destroy moths, eggs and larvae in a closet: Place a brick on the floor of the closet and on this a tin or iron pan. Heat a brick until it becomes very hot and then put it in the pan. Pour hot, strong vinegar on this brick, then close the door and keep it closed for 24 hours. The steam from the vinegar will kill any live thing that may be in the closet.

Little Doubt About It.

Married a month, a young man told the magistrate that his wife had done the following things: Torn up the marriage-certificate, pawned the ring, torn up her wedding-dress, assaulted him. She followed him to court, he added, but he managed to dodge her. The Clerk: "You took her for better or worse, and you seem to have got the worse."

Specialists Recommend Yawning.

In the opinion of learned specialists no one can be healthy unless he or she does a certain amount of yawning When you yawn you expel from the lungs a lot of superfluous air; the breathing muscles of both the chest and the throat are strengthened by yawning.

His Fear.

"Weren't you afraid to go downstairs in the dark last night?" asked a woman of her little son recently. "Yes, I was a little afraid," answered the boy. "But what were you afraid of?" asked the mother. "H'm," said the boy, "I was afraid there wouldn't be any doughnuts."

And So It Goes in Life.

"A girl," remarks Mack Cretcher, "must have dolls and ribbons and lots of fancy things to play with. A boy can have a pretty good time with nothing but a toad, a grasshopper and a few angle worms."

SOLEMN CEREMONIES MARK DEDICATION

Large Crowd Attends Crowning Event of Completion of St. Jerome's Catholic Church--Bishop J. Regis Canevin Preaches Sermon

MANY VISITING CLERGYMEN PRESENT

Solemn and impressive ceremonies characterized the dedication Sunday of the beautiful new church edifice of St. Jerome's Roman Catholic congregation at the corner of Washington avenue and Seventh street. Rt. Rev. Bishop J. Regis Canevin of the diocese of Pittsburg, dedicated the church and preached the sermon at the solemn high mass celebrated at 10:30 o'clock. To assist in the the observances a number of visiting clergymen were here, including Rev. Robert McDonald of Braddock, the first pastor of St. Jerome's church and Rev. T. A. Connors of Hazelwool the first assistant pastor.

Public exercises began with high mass at 10:30 o'clock. Previous to this hour Bishop Canevin had blessed the church and had in reality dedicated it. This was a private service.

When the organist struck the first tones of the processional and the altar boys in their vestments led the procession of clergymen and the bishop towards the altar, there was an immense crowd gathered in the church. Nearly all the pews were filled and there were numerous visitors from out-of-town.

With the usual impressive rites of high mass the ceremonies began. Rev. Robert McDonald, as would seem eminently fitting both from the fact that he was the first pastor of St. Jerome's church and that it was the anniversary of his first mass, was the celebrant of the solemn high mass. Also as would seem fitting, Rev T. A. Connors, the first assistant pastor served as deacon. Rev. H. C. Boyle, superintendent of schools of the Pittsburg diocese acted as the subdeacon. Rev. S. N. Axmacher, the present assistant pastor, filled the important post of master of ceremonies.

During the opening of the mass Bishop Canevin with his chaplains, Rev. William D. Fries, the pastor of St. Jerome's church, and Rev. P. Maher, of Roscoe, and other visiting clergymen occupied places to the left, close to the altar. The visiting clergymen there were Rev. William Hogan of Monessen, Rev. Father Boniface, C. P., of St. Paul's Monastery and Rev. Alphonse Mayer, of Coal Centre.

Under the efficient direction of Joseph Schoener the musical part of the mass was carried out most impressively. Mrs. Bertha Kleist was the organist and competently rendered the difficult masses on the new pipe organ.

Bishop Canevin read the gospel from the fifth chapter of St. Luke, the first to the eleventh verses inclusive, preceeding his sermon. The lesson which he read was chosen from the eighth chapter of the letter of Paul to the Romans the 18th to the 23rd verses.

His sermon was a logical treatise of what might be called a doctrinal topic, showing the foundation of the church and proving its relation to the dedication of the new structure.

Bishop Canevin in opening his discourse complimented particularly the present pastor and assistant pastor, Rev. W. D. Fries and Rev. B. N. Axmacher, and generally the congregation for their efforts in creating the monument to the Christian religion which he said it was his pleasure to be present to dedicate. He said:

"This is a day on which the people of this congregation and their pastors may well rejoice. In fact it would be wrong not to rejoice and thank God for this temple so erected for a high and holy purpose."

Bishop Canevin spoke of the historic continuity and unity in the development of the church and said that this continuity and unity was evidence that the 'gates of hell should not prevail." Bishop Canevin went back into history to show that there was one church, and one church only. There was one God, he argued, and hence there was one church.

In material things there must be unity, for instance in social and political affairs. Bishop Canevin spoke of the law of gravitation and of the equilibrium that resulted from gravitation's power, declaring that there must be the same equilibrium in spiritual things concerning the church, hence the need of the one church. He quoted, "A kingdom divided against itself cannot stand."

History proves, he said that there never had been any conflict between the Catholic church and science, but that they were true, unchanging constant elements in the intellectual world. Bishop Canevin declared there could not be any religion without dogma, and cited the dogmas of the Catholic church, showing the fullness of belief. "There is one great truth and one great church," was his argument. This belief he confirmed in closing his dicourse by illustration from scientific investigation.

Rev. P. Maher preached the sermon at the evening vespe service. He gave a most interesting discourse, taking his text from the tenth chapter of the Epistle to the Romans' tenth verse, "With the heart man believeth united justice, but with the mouth confession is made to salvation"

In his sermon, Rev. Maher spoke of the honor due to the church and said there could be no makeshift. He told of the internal merits of the church and in the honor due to the church, mentioned the grounds of gratitude for what she does for the people and for society.

Rev. Robert McDonald conducted the exercises. Rev. William Hogan, of Monessen was the deacon and Rev. Alphonse Mayer of Coal Centre was the sub-deacon. The master of ceremonies was Rev. T. A. Connors.

The substructure of the new church was completed at about the time Rev. W. D. Fries was appointed to the pastorate. Rev. Robert McDonald, the first pastor of St. Jerome's held the first mass in the substructure before leaving for Braddock. His transfer was made in 1905, so the substructure of the church is about seven years old. Work on the sub-structure was started last year. John T. Comes of Pitsburg was the architect and the Duquesne Construction company of Pittsburg the builders.

The trustees who had a notable part in looking after the work of building the new structure were: George Bailey, Councilman J. K. Rickey, John W. Carroll, P. Connelly, Dennis Oates, C. Minehan, George Pepperney and Frank Bailey.

MANY SOCIAL EVENTS AT PARK

Several Prominent Functions Have Been Arranged for Next Two Weeks

PHI BETA DANCE FIRST

The announcement card for Eldora shows a private dance of more than ordinary interest as one of the leading features for this week. That will be the one to be given by the Alpha Phi Beta fraternity on Wednesday night. The Monday night dancing club of the Monongahela couple. Mr. and Mrs. John Jenkins will be conducted as usual and the Delmar club of Monessen will hold their regular Tuesday night dance.

The week beginning June 16 will be rich with features. Chief among them will be the picnic and outing of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Monessen Lodge of Elks. It is expected that wives of Elks from all along the Monongahela valley will attend. The afternoon and evening will be the chief times of diversion. On Thursday, June 19, the Parochial schools of Monongahela will hold a picnic and on Thursday night of that week the newly organized "Char-Mon" club of Charleroi and Monessen young men will give a dance.

Wraps Again in Order.

The sudden drop in temperature yesterday and today started the gas fires in the sitting and bedroom stoves and caused a re-appearance of wraps and overcoats on the streets. So far as learned there was no frost but the low temperature was decidedly uncomfortable.

W. & J. ASKS AID FROM THE STATE

Representative Brownlee to Seek Appropriation for Washington Institution

AMOUNT IS $60,000

It is expected that at the opening of the session of the lower house of the legislature at Harrisburg today Assemblyman T. B. H. Brownlee, of Washington, will present a bill appropriating the sum of $60,000 for the erection of a chemical laboratory at Washington and Jefferson college. In the senate Senator J. C. Judson is expected to introduce a similar measure.

At this time it will be necessary for Assemblyman Brownlee to obtain unanimous consent to introduce such a measure but it is generally believed he will be able to accomplish this and the appropriation bill will be presented.

Much interest attaches to this proposed measure both in Washington and throughout Western Pennsylvania. At the present session of the legislature bills have been introduced providing the appropriation of large sums to various colleges and universities in the state. Nothing has been suggested for Washington and Jefferson heretofore and it is generally felt that the local institution is as deserving of state aid as are many of the other schools who have applied.

"MOTHER" JONES SCORES WEST VA. COAL BARONS

Aged and Militant Woman Labor Leader Makes Vigorous Speech at Eldora Park at Gathering of Tri-County Socialists

FLAYS EXECUTIVE AND JUDICIARY

Vigorously denouncing the coal barons and calling down heaps of fire on the heads of those who are supposedly responsible for conditions that exist over the country to the detriment of the laboring classes, "Mother" Jones, one of the most noted labor leaders of the United States addressed a large crowd at Eldora park Sunday afternoon. The occasion was the first meeting of the summer of the Tri-County Socialists from Washington, Westmoreland and Fayette counties. These three counties were largely represented. In the afternoon George R. Kirkpatrick, the original exponent of the anti-war theory and the author of the famous book "War, What For?" addressed a large crowd.

"Mother" Jones charged in her address that the coal barons of West Virginia through a subservient executive and judiciary had succeeded in abolishing the constitution and ruled with the use of the iron fists of the military forces.

She recounted the acts of tyrannous brutality that she witnessed in the mining camps of West Virginia during her residence there of almost a year. She was inspiring in her denunciation of certain high officials and their supposed smooth acts in compromising the embittled miners after their recent struggle.

Though over 83 years old she was melodic in rehearsing the horrors she saw in West Virginia and did not be slow to flay any party or individual whom she believed guilty of wrong doing. "Mother" Jones advocated most strongly working class political action and deprecated the present tendency to put into office men of the professions who understand little or nothing of the laboring cause. She urged the working class to arouse from its lethargy and take off the chains of wage slavery.

Mr. Kirkpatrick at the evening meeting spoke on the subject of the causes of war and told where the laboring man might look for relief. About 3,000 people were in attendance during the afternoon and evening.

CHARLEROI BEATS BEAVER FALLS

Much Touted Club From Industrial Town Gets Walloping by Locals

VISITORS FAIL TO SCORE

With an ease born of long training at that sort of thing the Charleroi Independents on Saturday afternoon beat the Beaver Falls Independents by the score of 10 to 0. Beaver Falls came to Charleroi touted with a great tout, but their noise was bigger than they were. Some of the fans went to the ball ground, they confessed, half expecting to see Charleroi jammed by the Beaver countains, only to see them give the visitors a dickens of a walloping. Yet it was not a bad sort of game.

Kagren of Beaver Falls started the struggle by singling and stealing second and third bases successively. That was the nearest any of the visiting aggregation ever got to home plate.

When Charleroi came to bat in the last of the first inning, Mathers struck out and Urben flied to right field. The right fielder made a noble effort to freeze to the ball, but his freezers went bad on him and "Hooks" got his base. Roll drew a walk. Urben went from second to third on a passed ball and home on a wild pitch. Roll tried to score on the same wild pitch only to get caught at the plate.

After the first until the fifth inning there was nothing doing in the scoreline. Donahue went to first on an error in this sesion and Mathers singled. Urben was safe on an error. Mathers got caught. Donahue came

MADE IN CHARLEROI.

It is getting to be a custom for towns to have some sort of an annual celebration, something to advertise the community, or to promote its interests in order to bring in trade and business. Charleroi has never participated in this custom for various reasons. In the first place the town is not old enough to have an old home week and secondly the products manufactured here are of such a nature that their distribution is wholesale, rather than retail.

In the world of manufactures however, Charleroi is an important place on the map, and is becoming more so each year. First of all is the great Macbeth-Evans glass factory, whose ornamental street lighting process now is figuring prominently. In the new system of scientific light engineering and the necessary products for its accomplishment, Charleroi is practically a base of supplies. In the manufacture of auto lenses the Charleroi product of the Macbeth-Evans factory is a world-wide standard as well as their battleship harbor and buoy lenses which are now created a government standard. Charleroi is also famous in that it has the only lighthouse lens manufactory in the United States, a department that has been installed and developed by the Macbeth-Evans people during the past two or three years.

Then there are other things that are made in Charleroi that concern local consumption more closely. Among these might be mentioned bottles and shovels, which are extensively produced. The town could well promote an interesting exhibit of things "made in Charleroi," that would be a credit to the whole state. Charleroi is playing an important part in the industrial life of the country and it is well for the outside world to know it.

FOOLING THE PEOPLE.

It was the immortal Lincoln who said, "You may be able to fool all the people some of the time, some of the people all the time, but you can't fool all the people all the time." Present conditions throughout the United States in regard to the political and fiscal management of public affairs, indicate that the great mass of people have reached the stage where they no longer permit themselves to be fooled. [illegible] and the time rule is getting so many hard jolts, and why so many of the old line politicians are without visible means of occupation.

Before the high cost of living became a problem the great mass of people scarcely felt the burden of public expenditures. Until modern requirements so increased the volume of public expenditures there was little attention paid to the matter, and extravagance and corruption became dominant. Individual taxes, however, were not high, and the people left the management of the public finances and fiscal policy to the politicians. However, when school requirement increased and expanded, when modern sanitary requirements became imperative in every locality, and with the increasing cost of living [illegible] the people began to sit up and take notice. Then began the irrepressible conflict between the people and the politicians that of whether or not the people shall rule directly on what most vitally concerns them, or whether they will permit a chosen few, usually self appointed, to dictate what shall and what shall not be.

This is the issue for all time to come in the fight whether the people will conduct their own affairs or permit special interests to dictate for them. Conditions are complicated and the struggle will be long and bitterly contested. The people will ultimately win out, as it is only a matter of realizing their sovereignty and removing the many obstacles which at the present time are preventing direct action.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

"Hey, Mac! Stop the car, quick! Mc Jenny's fallen off" excitedly cried a specimen of the tall timbers and green cornfields Sunday night from the rear of a swiftly moving car near Schenley Park in Pittsburg, says the Pittsburg Dispatch. With grim force the person was prevented from jumping overboard. The conductor gave the necessary bells and the car came to a sudden stop.

Alighting with reverse English the excited one turned a flipflop and disappeared down the tracks in the darkness. Passengers rushed to the rescue. So did many passing along the sidewalks. Women held their hands in the locations of their hearts and gasped. As someone expressed it afterward "a profound stillness rent the air like thunder," and then——

"Whoopee!" came a long-drawn [illegible] instant later the loose-jointed one hoped up the steps of the waiting car. He was embracing a corncob pipe, nestled cozily in his face.

"Got my Jenny" said he with a grin. A wave of relief passed through the car. "She's an old friend [illegible] he caressed the corncob lovingly.

"There's one more cold snap this season yet," said a Charleroi citizen this morning, in commenting on the low temperature that prevailed, "and that will come whenever I put away my short-legged underwear. I can bring about a change in temperature every time by changing my underwear, as regularly as the seasons come and go. I wore my heavy winter flannels until late in the season this year, but when it got to a sweltering point I thought I would change gradually, and donned cotton drawers, still retaining flannel upper garments. Sure enough the temperature dropped and for a couple of days I felt as I imagine a Scotchman does in kilts.

"Last Friday I put on a short sleeved undershirt and shed my vest. You see the result today. I expect to do the Scotchman act later on in the season, and then the next [illegible] is due."

TRAINED IN HOUSEHOLD WORK

German Institution Teaches Girls Domestic Service, and Finds Great Demand for Graduates.

Berlin has an institution, founded about two years ago by a woman. The object of the "Sister School," as it is called, is to train well-educated girls for domestic service. The students are generally daughters of professional men, and the curriculum comprises cookery, housework, the care of children, and needlework. When application is made for the services of a "sister," the matron, or some other woman connected with the school, calls upon the applicant, forms an opinion of the "situation," and arranges terms. Each "sister" must be allowed a free afternoon every week, one Sunday every other week from four o'clock, and a fortnight's holiday in the year. Six weeks' notice is required on each part. The salaries paid range from $7.50 to $12.50 a month, with, of course, board and lodging. Sisters wear a brown uniform, are treated as social equals, [illegible] meals with other servants, and are addressed as "Sister Marie," "Sister Redwig," etc. The demand for their services is so great that the head of the Sister school declares that she could place 500 girls a year, instead of 50, and similar institutions are about to be established in other German towns.

MAKE WAREHOUSE OF CHURCH

Sacred Edifice at Brighton, England, Has Been Unfortunate Since Its Erection.

To serve as a cold storage warehouse for meat and eggs—such is the fate of the beautiful Church of the Resurrection at Brighton, England. Built at the expense of the late Rev. H. D. Wagner for the accommodation, it is said, of the poorer members of the congregation, and for those who preferred a ritual simpler than that of St. Paul's church on West street, this building first attracted the public attention as the subject of a curious lawsuit. Mr. Wagner planned to build a remarkably tall church, and the owners of the adjoining property, by means of a lawsuit prevented him from so doing. Accordingly he caused deep excavations to be made and thus secured the desired internal height. The Church of the Resurrection proved to be a great expense and was closed in 1908 being, in the opinion of the present vicar of St. Paul's, no longer necessary for the purpose for which it was built. In 1909, after prolonged opposition on the part of Rev. E. F. B. Weber, one of the trustees, it was sold. Since then it has stood empty and in disrepair, until the grotesque tragedy of its present usage occurred.—The Churchman.

Tons of Iron Lost In Rust.

One large railroad system suffers a loss of more than eighteen tons of metal daily, due solely to the effect of rust. Thus far the only known preventive is to keep the metal surface always covered with a suitable paint. Some idea of the costliness of this remedy however, may be gained from the fact that it requires about $10,000 annually to paint one large railway bridge alone. A typical case of this kind is the Brooklyn bridge, upon which a corps of painters are constantly employed as the weather makes repainting of one end of this large structure necessary before the workers have reached the other. Although experiments have demonstrated that pure iron surrounded by oxygen does not rust, and that some acid, especialy carbonic acid, is necessary for the production of rust, the secret of manufacturing rustless steel and iron remains to be discovered.

Lasting Joke.

How long will a good joke last? Who can tell? You have heard that one about the good sleighing in Canada, and how by putting on a pair of pajamas and sitting on a cake of ice before an open window and ringing a bell one can get the same effect, and much cheaper. Billy Emerson, the minstrel, originated that one over thirty-five years ago, and it is one that has never run down. DeWolf Hopper began to use it in his curtain speeches eleven years ago, and ever since, eight times a week forty weeks a season, he has used it and it has never failed to get a laugh. Always there are some in the audience who never heard it. Hopper figures that with the addition of a few score times at private functions he has "sprung" the chestnut 3,753 times. It is his one best bet, he says, and expects to use it as long as he is in public life.

$20 Gold Pieces a Quarter Each.

When five boys commenced to sell $10 and $20 gold pieces on the streets of North Scranton for 25 cents each, with the supply apparently unlimited, curiosity was at once aroused as to the source of supply, and the boys were taken into custody and given the "third degree." When searched the youths pockets produced over $600 in gold coin and when questioned they admitted that they had found a "pot of gold."

The money was buried in a box in the cellar of a house formerly occupied by Peter J. Scanlon, who during his lifetime had the reputation of being a miser. There were $620 in shiny gold pieces in the box. The boys, none of whom was over eight years of age, thought they were brass medals and sold about twenty of them before being arrested.—Scranton (Pa.) Dispatch to Philadelphia Record.

Happiest Home.

But the happiest home is built when the twain together meet the trials and catastrophes that come from the outside world with the good health, the common sense, the humor, the patience and courage that will rout them. It should not be necessary for these qualities to be used by the one to combat the faults of the other.—Barbara Boyd.

Lucrative Find in South Africa.

South Africa's possibilities as a producer of vegetable oils are wide indeed if the results of recent experiments under the auspices of the Mozambique authorities are translated into commercial realities. For instance, the fruit of the "macua-macua" was shown to yield no less than 60 per cent of fine edible oil, and of the "pombula" 52 per cent.

To Exterminate Vermin.

Mix and let stand for several hours one-half gallon of gasoline and ten cents' worth of corrosive sublimate. Put the mixture into a pint oil can with a long spout, and spray into every place where there are bugs. Air the room thoroughly. After a few applications the vermin will have entirely disappeared.

GOOD OLD AMERICAN NAMES.

"Monakers" Seen in News of Day Indicate New York Is Our Foremost European Capital.

In the news of one day in New York we find that a man by the name of Isidore Steinberg pleaded guilty to bigamy in the court of a judge named Rosalsky; that a youth named Tumoshefsky was drowned; a man named Blau was convicted of keeping disorderly resort; a girl named Anna Cicone was a principal witness in a murder case; a Madame Le Compte figured in domestic sensation; a certain Miss Zella brought a breach of promise case; a Governor named Sulzer sent a message to the legislature; Hannes Kolehmainen was the star of a footrace; another runner named Abel Kiviat made a fast trial spin; and a Mr. Max Hochstim figured in a hotel scandal.

The names of Klonz, Remitz, Brosi, Gaw, Levi, Harberg, Golla, Schenkel, Stoveli, Meniak, Dalldorf, Jensen, Yohoman, Stappers, Lococq Hulse Maetrich, Wirsing, Worler, Szabo, Tietelbaum, Frnari, Carnap, Loew, Brandus, Mahoney, Braum, Kimmelman Ubert, Sarlin, Trosky, Mullan and Beubel are the first to assail the eye on turning to a page of advertisements.

In another generation or two these will be good old American names. Meanwhile New York will continue to be our foremost European capital.

SAYS ALL WOMEN ARE LIARS

German Diplomat, Who Got the "Mitten," Declares Fair Sex Deficient Morally.

"All women are liars and are deficient in their sense of moral duty."

This and more is the opinion of Baron Herrmann von Kuhlmann of Bavaria, unmarried and attached to German embassy at Pekin, who arrived on the Chiyo Maru recently.

According to fellow passengers, the baron formed his views on the voyage when his attentions to Miss Katherine Enright of Chicago did not meet with hearty response.

"A woman cannot recognize the same moral responsibility as a man," said the baron. "No marriage can remain a happy one for more than a year. By that time a man will lose faith in his wife."

Then, turning to Miss Enright, the baron said:

"We have had a pleasant trip. But to have you for a wife if I could—never! You are too energetic."

Returning to the interview, the baron continued:

"Woman is illogical and untrustworthy. She changes her mind too frequently. Woman has no feeling requiring her to tell the truth. In Germany a man and wife are comrades, but in America—never. Here the women are proud and selfish and the men suffer for it."

Advice About Reading.

Be sure, then, to read no mean books; shun the spawn of the press in the gossip of the hour. Do not read what you shall learn, without asking, in the street and the train. Dr. Johnson said he "always went into stately shops," and good travelers stop at the best hotels, for though they cost more they do not cost much more, and there is the good company and the best information. In like manner the scholar knows that the famous books contain, first and last, the best thoughts and facts. . . . The three practical rules, then, which I have to offer are (1) Never read any book that is not a year old. (2) Never read any but famed books. (3) Never read any but what you like.—Emerson.

Community in News.

At a friend's southern hunting lodge his wife has learned that her "ring-up" on the telephone is accompanied by the click of receivers all along the line. Every one is obviously listening to what she says. On one occasion a telegram was telephoned to the lodge, and the following day, when her husband met a rural neighbor on the road, the latter drew rein to converse.

"Mr. Grey," said he, "I didn't ketch th' fust part o' that telegram we got yeste'day."

Mr. Grey accordingly enlightened his ignorance forthwith.—New York World.

Farmer's Suggestion.

A Florida farmer who was raising strawberries for the market sent a shipment to New York and the commission merchant wrote back that the berries were too ripe, consequently poor prices and small return checks, so next time the grower picked them earlier and the results were about the same, as the New York man said they were too green for the market; so the next shipment the man pulled up the plants by the roots, packed them in boxes and said, "You can pick them when just right for your particular market."

Resolutions of Respect

At a regular meeting of Charleroi Circle 303 P. H. C. Friday, June 6th, 1918 the following resolutions of respect were adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased the Divine Ruler of the Universe to remove from our midst our Brother George Pegg.

Resolved, That our charter be draped for 30 days in honor of his memory, resolutions of respect drafted a copy of the same to be spread upon our minutes a copy to be sent to the bereaved family and printed in daily papers.

While we humbly submit to the Divine Power in removing from our midst our Brother George Pegg we as well as his immediate friends feel the deep loss.

His accustomed place in this Circle is now vacant, the tongue has lost its power of speech, the lips are closed in the cold embrace of death. His form and face are now forever hidden from [illegible] see him in our midst but his goodness of heart, manly virtues and acts of charity are engraved upon our hearts and memories. RESTORED INN OF AUERBACH

Tavern Where Goethe Placed One of Scenes In "Faust" Has Been Reconstructed.

The latest concrete evidence of literary devotion in Germany is the thorough reconstruction of the "Tavern of Auerbach," where Goethe placed one of the most vivid scenes of "Faust." It is melancholy to reflect that nothing more remains of the old building, since after a complete demolition the architects have constructed a wholly modern building on the site, but care has been taken to preserve intact the cellar, which has been for fully a century an object of pilgrimage for Germans, who are at once proud of their literature and fond of recherche drinking.

Painters of an "advanced" school have been commissioned to adorn the walls of the various dining rooms with scenes taken from Goethe's great drama, while to complete the new attractions it is announced that the staircase leading down to the cellar will be furnished with two bronze statues, the subject of which is unknown. The evolution of the "Tavern of Auerbach" promises to be the same as that of other like sacred places. It will probably bring in an excellent income to the restaurateur.

ENGLISH WOMEN RUN FARMS

Through Co-Operation Special Provision Is Made for Them in Some Sections.

Seventy-five enthusiastic women farmers met recently at the Criterion restaurant, the occasion being the fifth annual dinner of the Women's International union. Mrs. Wilton Allhusen presided.

Miss Emerson maintained that women have not the same facilities, capital, and so forth, as men.

"The remedy," she said, lies in co-operation. A company has obtained a farm at Heathfield, in Sussex, and has divided it into small holdings for women farmers. Bungalows are provided for the tenants, whose agreements secure fixity of tenure and who have perfect liberty in developing their land as they like. At the same time they have the benefit of expert advice. The company markets all the produce, and is able to obtain better terms than could the individual tenants."—London Mail.

Ozone as a Preservative.

An important improvement in the technique of cold storage has recently been introduced in Germany, viz., the use of ozone as a supplement to the ordinary process of refrigeration. In the cold storage rooms attached to slaughter houses the temperature of the air is liable to be raised to a serious extent when the doors are left open for any reason, for instance, when meat is being put in or taken out. The micro-organisms of putrefaction immediately become active under such circumstances, and the keeping quality of the meat is diminished. Now it is well known that ozone is a powerful germicide. If the air of the cold-storage rooms is ozonized, its temperature may be raised without injury to the contents. This has been proved by numerous experiments, and ozonizing apparatus has now been installed in the abatoirs at Cologne, Potsdam, Brandenburg, Berlin, Frankfurt-on-the-Main, Dusseldorf, Freiburg (Silesia), Aix-la-Chapelle and Erfurt, in a cold storage depot at Hamburg, and in various dairies, poultry and game stores and fish establishments.

To Put Out Oil Fires.

Two Danish inventors have found a way to put out oil fires by applying carbonic acid that is foaming violently. The foam is produced by a mixture of two liquids, and it is said that when it is thrown on burning substances, such as oils, benzine and tar, it spreads rapidly over the surface and puts out the flames by cutting off the air. Many tanks that contain oil or other highly inflammable liquids are now permanently fitted with perforated pipes, through which the foaming mixture can be applied directly to the surface of the burning material. Hitherto fires in oil tanks have been allowed to burn themselves out or the contents have been drawn out from below and wasted. According to Chambers' Journal many private and government institutions have adopted the new system.

He Meant a Wee Nap, Not a Wee Nip.

After Charles Myers, a Mason (Mo.) barber, had finished up the stranger he raised the chair, and his customers head fell over to one side. The barber straightened him up and shook him a little.

"You were asleep," said Charley.

"So I was—so I was," agreed the gentleman in the chair. "Well, you'll have to come 'round to my place and take one on me."

"I don't drink," returned Charley.

"Neither do I. I'm the new preacher at the First Street church."—New York World.

It Will Save Time.

They took an ocean voyage for their honeymoon. The second day out "dearie" was experiencing the unreliability of an ocean that was guaranteed to be without variableness or shadow of turning and wondering if "hubbie" could by any human effort obtain a position abroad when "hubbie" entered the stateroom.

"It is lunch time, dearie; shall I have yours brought here or will you try to eat it on deck?"

"No, love; have it thrown overboard. It will save time and trouble."

Eight Who Deserve Slaps.

Eight men who deserve to be slapped on the face: He who despises a man of power; he who enters a house uninvited and unwelcomed; he who gives orders in a house not his own; he who takes a seat above his position, he who speaks to one who does not listen to him, he who intrudes on the conversation of others; he who seeks favors from the ungenerous; and he who expects love from his enemies.—From a Persian Saying.

Real Test.

There is something finer than to do right against inclination and that is to have an inclination to do right. There is something nobler than reluctant obedience, and that is joyful obedience. The rank of virtue is not measured by its disagreeableness, but by its sweetness to the heart that loves it. The real test of character is joy. For what you rejoice in, that you love. And what you love, that you are like.—Henry van Dyke.

Be Careful in Speech.

If in our speech we would need consider how our words will affect those to whom they are spoken—if we would try to hear them with their ears and consider how they accept in their hearts, there would not be much passionate or unadvised speech; certainly there would be few spirits wounded or lives embittered by the words of [illegible]

Pigeon Descended Chimney.

When a resident in the London road, Reading, England, came downstairs recently, he found perched on the top bar of the grate in the drawing-room a pigeon which had come down the chimney. PROUD OF HIS SELF-CONTROL

Mrs. Brown Could Agree With Her Liege Lord, Too, That It Was Something Uncommon

Mr. Brown was excitable by nature, but he often prided himself audibly upon his self-control. One night while the family were gathered at the tea table the chimney began to roar; the furnace draft had been opened and forgotten. Straightway a panic ensued.

"Don't lose your heads—keep cool!" cried Mr. Brown. "It's nothing serious."

He dashed up the stairs, discovered that the metal cap over the only unused stovepipe hole was already red hot, and dashed down again faster than he went up.

"K-keep cool!" he gasped, as he passed through the room where the family had gathered in nervous apprehension. "I'll be back in a minute."

He was back in less than that time, having observed that the flames were spouting several feet high from the chimney, and that a shower of sparks was falling upon the roof.

"Wh-where's the step-ladder?" he panted.

answer the question, and presently was heard bellowing from the roof of the woodshed. He presented an heroic figure in the glare of the blazing chimney.

"I've got one end of the hose!" he called. "Some one attach the other end and turn on the water—quick!"

Two long minutes passed

"Why doesn't some one do as I ordered'" he thundered. "Do you want the place to burn up?"

"We can't, Henry!" called Mrs. Brown, tremblingly. "You haven't got the hose—you've got the cow-rope. It was hanging next to the hose in the shed. And anyway, the roof is covered with ice, and I don't think there's any great danger outside. You'd better go and watch the chimney from the inside."

A half-hour later the family were again at the tea table.

"If this had happened in some homes," remarked Mr. Brown, "the family would have lost their heads completely and sent in an alarm. Self-control is an excellent thing—and far from common."

"Indeed it is!" agreed Mrs. Brown, emphatically.—Youth's Companion.

BASEBALL FOR THE FARMER

Possibly the Game Might Be of Benefit to Him, But It Is Hardly Indispensable.

Baseball never has been regarded exclusively as a city product. While it is true that the cities supply the enormous crowds that support the big leagues, it is equally true that many of the players in those leagues are graduates of the "bush" leagues. The country boy has an equal chance with the city boy to win the high honors and generous emoluments of a successful ball player. The farmer himself has not come directly in touch with the national game, perhaps, except on a rare holiday. A professor in the Kansas State Agricultural college calls this a mistake. Familiarity with the game, he believes, would promote success in agriculture. If the farmer could play ball "it would take the shamble out of his walk" and "make him decide quickly." This is an interesting theory, but it will not be universally accepted. Some will contend that the motor car has already taken the "shamble" out of the farmer's walk. Others will insist that handling a high spirited horse or pitching a load of hay on a wagon while a thunderstorm is gathering is just as valuable in training his mental faculties to quick action.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

Rose Culture in Bulgaria.

White and red roses are grown, the former being easier to cultivate, but giving only about half as much oil of an inferior quality. The individual growers distil their own oil. Twelve to fifteen kilos of roses are distilled with 60 kilos of water until 12 kilos of distillate are obtained; eight to ten such lots are then united, and redistilled into long necked flasks, in which the oil separates on standing. To produce one kilo of oil requires 8,000 kilos of roses of 1,200,000 flowers. The roses are gathered in the early morning and distilled the same day. The pure oil from the various districts shows variations in odor and physical properties, and is therefore skillfully blended by the distributing houses before sale. Adulteration is very largely carried on by the peasants, who use ginger grass oil, palma rosa oil, geranium oil, etc. The production for 1910 was 3,148 kilos.—The Pharmaceutical Era.

We Are Creatures of Habit.

There was no rush at the moment and the ticket chopper had time to talk to the man waiting for a friend in a subway station. "Yes, we see lots of queer people here," he said, "and we have nearly the same people every day and at the same hour. I know men who do not vary a minute in a week in their reaching the ticket box. The queerest man we have at this station we call 'the whistler.' Every morning at 7:20 he drops his ticket in the box and he always whistles. That wouldn't be so funny, but for years it has always been the same tune. We all know the tune, but no one knows the song. His ticket goes in the box at the same note every morning, and then he walks to the third post, opens his paper and whistles till the train comes."—New York Tribune.

Made His Blessing Retroactive.

The father of a family who had been striving to bring up his children in the way they should go was very much annoyed at his son's uncouth habit of helping himself to a few bites before grace had been said. The stereotyped form called for: "A blessing on what we are about to eat," but one occasion being particularly exasperating, he astounded the young man by adding to his petition, "and on that which has already been eaten."

Fully Explained.

Every now and again some individual arises to tell us Why We Are, and What We Are, and How We Know Why We Are, and How We Are What We Know, and What We Would Be if We Weren't, and What, Precisely, Areness Is, also Wereness, and Why We Aren't What We Mightn't Have Been if We Weren't, and other simple and entrancing facts. Such an individual is called a philosopher.—Bulletin, Sidney.

Will Destroy Moths.

It is said that the following will destroy moths, eggs and larvae in a closet: Place a brick on the floor of the closet and on this a tin or iron pan. Heat a brick until it becomes very hot and then put it in the pan. Pour hot, strong vinegar on this brick, then close the door and keep it closed for 24 hours. The steam from the vinegar will kill any live thing that may be in the closet.

Little Doubt About It.

Married a month, a young man told the magistrate that his wife had done the following things: Torn up the marriage-certificate, pawned the ring, torn up her wedding-dress, assaulted him. She followed him to court, he added, but he managed to dodge her. The Clerk: "You took her for better or worse, and you seem to have got the worse."

Specialists Recommend Yawning.

In the opinion of learned specialists no one can be healthy unless he or she does a certain amount of yawning. When you yawn you expel from the lungs a lot of superfluous air; the breathing muscles of both the chest and the throat are strengthened by yawning.

His Fear.

"Weren't you afraid to go downstairs in the dark last night?" asked a woman of her little son recently. "Yes, I was a little afraid," answered the boy. "But what were you afraid of?" asked the mother. "H'm," said the boy, "I was afraid there wouldn't be any doughnuts."

To Preserve Home of George Fox.

Swarthmoor hall, near Ulverston, Lancashire (Eng.) formerly the home of George Fox, founder of the Society of Friends, was bought at Ulverston, a short time ago, on behalf of the English members of the society for £5,250. His writing desk was bought for 26 guineas.

The Merry Advertiser.

And So It Goes in Life.

"A girl," remarks Mack Cretcher, "must have dolls and ribbons and lots of fancy things to play with. A boy can have a pretty good time with nothing but a toad, a grasshopper and a few angle worms."

Perhaps a Tragic Comedy.

A writer once said that the world is a comedy to those who think, a tragedy to those who feel. He doesn't say what it is to the fellow who tries to take a wide garbage can through a narrow alley-way.—Satire.

For Tired Feet.

When your feet ache, caused by long standing, exercise them by rising first to the toes, then on the heels, in a rocking motion for a few times. This was advised by a specialist.—Woman's Home Companion.

Man's Eating.

One man likes to be made a fuss over, another likes to be let alone, and a third likes his mind diverted. But in all cases have something good for him to eat, whatever kind he is.

Easy.

Young Widow—"Did you have any trouble getting Jack to propose?" Girl Friend—"No, dear; I told him you were after him."—Boston Transcript.

Daily Thought.

One principal point of good breeding is to suit our behavior to the three several degrees of men—our superiors, our equals and those below us.—Swift.

Difference.

The only difference between a caprice and a life-long passion is that the caprice lasts a little longer.—The Tattler.

Producing Optimism.

A very good remedy for anybody's pessimism is being able to pay his bills.—New York Press.
